EPA is committed to working closely with response agencies and state and local officials to ensure the safety of citizens, respond to concerns and to evaluate impact to water contaminated by the Gold King Mine Release. EPA is sharing information as quickly as possible with the public as experts work to evaluate any effects the spill may have on drinking water, public health, agriculture, fish and wildlife. Please see our website for the latest information: <http://www2.epa.gov/goldkingmine>
Regular updates will be posted as they are available.

Comments:

I have some questions I would like answered in your following press releases.
I will list them below:

Why don't you talk about the damage and destruction to the plants and animals downstream? Why weren't you prepared for this eventuality when you started digging around the mine? Who caused this problem in the first place? Why aren't laws changed to go after the people who made the money in the mining operations in the first place? What about the toxic mine above Crested Butte - what are you doing about that? Which employees from EPA will be fired from their job and prosecuted for their incompetence?
